² State law requires a juvenile court intake officer to screen a prostitution complaint filed against a child to determine whether the child meets the legal definition of “sexually exploited child” but does not broadly mandate juvenile justice agencies to conduct trauma-informed CSEC screening for commercially sexually exploited children who enter the juvenile justice system.

³ The Texas Juvenile Justice Department is required to evaluate the use of screening tools for purposes of identifying and responding to commercial sexual exploitation.
